Six Nations of the Grand River Development Corporation and TULLOCH to Form Indigenous-Led Joint Venture

New partnership to provide engineering services for development projects in Southern Ontario

For Immediate Release: July 16, 2025 – Six Nations of the Grand River Development Corporation (SNGRDC), the economic development arm of Six Nations of the Grand River, and TULLOCH, an Ontario-based multidisciplinary engineering firm, are pleased to announce the formation of a joint venture to provide engineering services for current and future development projects in Southern Ontario. SNGRDC will hold a majority interest in the Joint Venture.

TULLOCH brings extensive expertise to the partnership, offering services including geomatics, civil and structural engineering, geotechnical engineering, environmental and regulatory consulting, feasibility studies, and construction management. SNGRDC will leverage Indigenous procurement opportunities and benefit from a share of the profits generated through contracts executed by the Joint Venture. Furthermore, the partnership will seek to provide training and employment opportunities to members of Six Nations of the Grand River and other First Nations, while prioritizing the use of Indigenous contractors whenever possible.

“I am very pleased to be partnering with TULLOCH as we continue to diversify and grow our partnership portfolio,” said Matt Jamieson, President & CEO of Six Nations of the Grand River Development Corporation. “Their breadth of services and proven expertise give us great confidence, and I look forward to the meaningful work our organizations will accomplish together.”

“Joining forces with Six Nations of the Grand River Development Corporation continues our long history of partnering with Indigenous communities,” said Mark Tulloch, CEO of TULLOCH. “It’s an opportunity to share expertise and build prosperity that extends well beyond any single project.”
